Global Responsibility:
Finding German-American Solutions to International Problems

Final Briefing of the AICGS project "A German-American Dialogue of the Next Generation: Global Responsibility, Joint Engagement"

Thursday, 14 June 2018
Deutsche Atlantische Gesellschaft e.V. (German Atlantic Association)
Haubach-Hall
Dorotheenstrasse 84 - 10117 Berlin

Agenda

The AICGS project "A German-American Dialogue of the Next Generation: Global Responsibility, Joint Engagement" engages young Americans and Germans in discussions of current issues of concern for the transatlantic relationship. The project participants are young leaders in a variety of fields who have been working together for several months in three groups representing the AICGS Program Areas (Foreign and Domestic Policy; Society, Culture, and Politics; and Geoeconomics) with the intent to frame and deliberate on the issues and create solutions to a variety of global challenges facing the United States and Germany. This Briefing highlights the results of the participants' work.

9:00 – 9:30am   Registration and Light Breakfast

9:30 – 9:45am   Introduction
Jackson Janes, President AICGS

9:45 – 10:30am   Reflect, Redefine, Renew: Priorities for Transatlantic Relations - Foreign and Domestic Policy Group
Presentations of the recommendations and discussion:
Niklas Helwig, RAND Corporation
Peter Rough, Hudson Institute

10:30 – 11:15am   Civil Society in a World of Challenge and Change - Society, Culture, and Politics Group
Presentations of the recommendations and discussion:
Annika Frieberg, San Diego State University
Julie Hamann, Deutsche Gesellschaft für Auswärtige Politik

11:15am – 11:30am   Coffee Break

11:30am – 12:15pm   Challenges and Opportunities for the Transatlantic Economic Relationship: Building Common Ground in the Light of Brexit and America First - Geoeconomics Group
Presentations of the recommendations and discussion:
David Livingston, Atlantic Council
Angela Stanzel, European Council on Foreign Relations

12:30-1:30pm   Luncheon